

What is Pen-in-Mouth Reading?

It's a speech clarity drill where you read aloud with a pen held between your teeth. Sounds weird? Maybe. But it forces your tongue, lips, and jaw to work harder, making your normal speech cleaner, clearer, and more powerful after practice.

Why YOU Must Do This (Especially as an Indian Entrepreneur)

If you're talking to foreign clients:

- Your accent, unclear words, or fast speech can break trust fast
- They won't ask you to repeat – they'll just tune out or not buy
- Unclear communication = Lost sales, respect, and opportunities

This 2-min exercise daily can literally add clarity to your cash flow.

How It Helps

- Improves clarity by forcing your mouth muscles to work harder
 - Increases fluency because it trains you to think while speaking
 - Strengthens muscle memory for correct pronunciation
 - Helps reduce mother tongue influence naturally
 - Makes your natural speech feel easier and more confident

How to Do PIMR (Step-by-Step)

1. Take a pen or pencil – not too thick
2. Hold it horizontally between your teeth (like you're biting it)

3. Pick a short paragraph – ideally with tongue-twisters or client-facing lines
 4. Read it loudly and slowly for 1–2 minutes
 5. Take the pen out and read the same lines again – notice the boost in clarity
 6. Do this daily before sales calls, presentations, or recordings
